

PAUL HOGAN & JEFF WORTMAN

COMIC PERFORMERS/BROADCASTERS/WRITERS

Best mates Jeff Wortman and Paul Hogan team up in The Peanut Gallery. It's a bit of comedy, a bit of sport, a spot of musical theatre and lots of fun... and can currently be heard on the Triple M Network at nights between 7pm-9pm nationally.

Jeff and Paul met whilst studying Creative Arts at Uni. Paul dropped out after 6 months and Jeff went on to graduate with honours. They both ended up in the Peanut Gallery (though Paul saved himself a few thousand dollars in University fees).

Jeff and Paul also produce regular videos and articles for the Herald Sun and News Ltd websites.

They have interviewed Chris Isaak, Rob Schneider, Carson Cressley, sung 'Jesse's Girl' with Totti Goldsmith, had singing lessons with Jimmy Barnes, done office pranks with Eddie McGuire and even taken a speckie over Jon Bon Jovi.

And with their many and varied talents in sketches and creating song parodies on current entertainment affairs and sporting controversies, the Peanut Gallery guys are sure to take you along on their comedic musical journey.

At the end of 2009, Eddie McGuire asked the Peanut Gallery boys to fill in over summer while he went on holidays. In December and January 2010, Jeff and Paul successfully conquered the breakfast timeslot with lots of support and plenty of new fans.
